TENNIS TOURNEY PLANS UNDERWAY

TENNIS FANS PREPARING FOR CHAMPIONSHIP MATCHES.

TO BE IN APRIL OR MAY

Exact Dates Not Set—Several Have Signified Intentions of Entering.

Preliminary plans are being made for a series of city tennis tournaments to be held in Maryville in the months of April and May. It is planned to hold a tournament for men and for women in singles and a similar tourney in doubles. Also a mixed doubles tournament will be held.

In this tournament different organizations will be asked to enter teams and these teams will play for the city championship. Entry blanks will also be open to individuals who desire to enter the tourney unattached.

The games of the tournament will be played either on the State Teachers College courts or on other courts in the city.

Already several organizations have signified their intention of entering teams in the matches and it is believed that before the time set for the play that there will be as many as fifteen teams entered in the doubles and from twenty to thirty players entered in the singles.

An entrance fee will be charged for the tournament and from this cups will be purchased. These cups will be awarded to the winners in each class.

Followers of the court game are numerous in Maryville and the tournament should be interesting and some good brands of tennis is promised.

Forrest Gillam and the Rev. S. P. Allison are expected to make quite a showing in the singles and should they be paired in the doubles they would furnish competition for almost any team. These two mean were paired together in doubles in an inter-city series two years ago against Hopkins.

The State Teachers College will likely furnish a wealth of material as there are some first-rate tennis players enrolled there. Earl Miller, Steiger, Mapel and Allan are among the best and there are others who play a good game.

Dr. Jesse Miller, Jr., is one of the local players, who has gained some recognition on the courts, and it is likely that he will be among the strong contenders for honors.

Among the women the College furnishes again the greater number. Misses Ruth Miller and Lethal Garten are both fast and aggressive players, and Miss Ora May Condon and others are clever wielders of the racquet.

Clifford M. Hull, tennis player and official for some years, has consented to officiate at the matches.

HACKMANN SAYS TESTIMONY FALSE

DID NOT KNOW OF INCOME TAX BEING CUT 50 PER CENT

"CLERKS FRAMED HIM"

St. Louis Returns Drop Over $1,000,000 While Collection Cost Rose $1,500

Jefferson City, Feb. 21. — Counter charges that the testimony of Harry Jackson, bookkeeper in the auditor's office, was false in regard to the finding of a fraudulent warrant and jacket by which someone tried to have a $7,800 account paid twice, were made yesterday by George E. Hackmann, state auditor, before the senate investigating committee. Hackmann declared that Fred Goyert, warrant clerk, found the jacket and warrant and that Jackson "manufactured the story in order to make himself the hero."

The investigation yesterday was devoted to questioning Hackmann about the Jackson county audit made in 1918, the present audit being made of St. Louis county and about the supposed attempt of someone to defraud the state by passing a bogus jacket and warrant drawn on the road fund twice.

Clarence Curtis, clerk in the auditor's office, was the first witness to testify yesterday. He was questioned about the preparation of soldiers bonus lists by employes in the auditor's office and their sale by T. E. Collins, a salesman of St. Louis.

Sold Bonus Lists.

Curtis testified that about 25,000 names of soldier bonus recipients had been compiled, that their sale had brought a total of about $1,100 and that T. Collins, Joe Diel, former employes of the auditor's office, Victor Essen, an employe in the office, and himself, had received all of the money. He declared that Hackmann had received none of it.

Curtis also testified that he had contributed towards Hackmann's campaign fund but that he did not give each month and that he only gave what he thought he could. He said this money was not paid to Hackmann personally, but to his chief clerk.

Hackmann was questioned by Senator Farris regarding the expense of collecting the income tax in St. Louis and Jackson County, half of which the state pays, and when asked by Farris if he had ever investigated the cost of collecting this tax Hackmann said that he always certified the cost as given him by the various counties.

Cost Is Higher.

Senator Farris then asked, "Did it ever occur to you, Mr. Hackmann, that last year the cost of collecting the income tax in St. Louis was approximately $1,500 more last year than the year before" Hackmann said that he didn't know that it was.

Farris then declared that only $1,500,000 was collected in St. Louis in 1922, while $2,586,000 was collected there in 1921.

Farris also asked Hackmann if it was true Ruth Jackson, daughter of Harry Jackson, had been paid $100 for one month that she had worked in the auditor's office and then $150 another month but that Hackmann had received the $50 by having Jackson post the amount at $100. Hackmann denied this and said that Jackson "manufactured this just as he manufactured the story about finding the jacket."

Fred Gowdy Found Guilty; Got 2 Years

Jury in Savannah This Morning Brought in a Verdict—Maryville Attorneys in Case

Savannah, Feb. 21—The jury in the case of Fred Gowdy, Tarkio farmer charged with receiving stolen hogs in a case growing out of Atchison county's "theft ring," brought in a verdict this morning of guilty and assessed the punishment at two years in the penitentiary. The case went to the jury late yesterday afternoon and was unable to reach a verdict until this morning.

Shinabargar, Blagg and Ellison of Maryville represented Gowdy.

(St. Joseph News-Press)

Savannah, Mo., Feb. 21.—Fred Gowdy, a resident of Tarkio, accused of receiving stolen hogs, is on trial before a jury in the circuit court here today on a change of venue from Atchison County. Gowdy, tried and acquitted on a similar charge here last May, is one of many residents of Atchison County arrested about a year ago as the result of investigation of the activities of a group of men who were, it was charged, engaged in a wholesale campaign of petty and major thievery.

In the case now on trial Gowdy is accused of receiving stolen hogs from George Keever and Earl Fox. Keever and Fox, accused of theft, are expected to go to trial upon the completion of the Gowdy case.

J. E. Gore of Rock Port, Prosecuting attorney of Atchison County, is being assisted in the prosecution of the case by Allen May, special assistant attorney general.

When Earl Fox and Frank Cowan of Oregon, Mo., at liberty on bond in several cases of grand larceny, appeared at Savannah yesterday to testify in the case, they were placed under arrest and turned over to William Busch a deputy sheriff of Buchanan County. They are charged with burglarizing the office of Allen May, in the Corby-Forsee building, Feb. 8. They were arraigned this morning before Justice Wyatt. Their bond was set at $1,000 each, and the date of their preliminary hearings set for Friday.

May is a special assistant attorney general designated to assist in the prosecution of a number of persons accused of being implicated in wholesale petty and major thievery in Atchison County about a year ago. Fox and Cowan are among those under arrest ,and according to May, they attempted to steal court documents in the case from his office.

"TALKFEST" ON TO DEFEAT SHIP BILL

POWERFUL FILIBUSTER NOW ON IN SENATE

SHEPPARD TALKS 10 HRS.

Williams of Miss. and Reed of Mo. Give Voluminous Talks to Block Harding Measure

Washington, Feb. 21.—Enemies of the administration's ship subsidy bill predicted ultimate victory upon the resumption of the fifth day of skirmishing in the Senate. The anti-subsidy supporters, "The Battalion of death," insurgent Republicans and Democrats, plunged into the third day of the filibuster with renewd efforts to "Talk the bill to death."

Senator Sheppard of Texas, Democrat, who began the active filibuster against the bill, last night concluded his speech on the League of Nations after he had spoken a total of ten hours and forty-five minutes.

On concluding his speech he was congratulated by La Follette of Wisconsin, himself a man of no little experience in filibustering, and other senators.

Then Senator Williams of Mississippi, also a Democrat, took the floor, followed shortly by Senator Reed of Missouri.

Senator Reed instructed pages to bring in two large maps and the senior senator from Missouri got set for discussing his resolution authorizing the Presidents to negotiate with Great Britain and France for purchasing the Carribean possessions.

They were openly scored by the administration leaders, who abandoned their plan for continuing an all night session. Just before midnight, Senator Jones, of Washington, proposed that the tired senators be allowed a little sleep. Under the rules then, Senator Reed, who held the floor, was entitled to resume his speech today. He announced that he would speak on the "international situation."

SEES NO ADVANTAGE TRAINING TO TEACH

WHITAKER GAINS ENGROSSMENT OF A BILL

SETS COLLEGES ASIDE

Certificates from University and Normals are Invalidated by Engrossed Bill

Jefferson City, Feb. 21.—The house yesterday struck its first heavy blow against the state university and the five state teachers colleges when, by a vote of 66 to 56, it ingrossed the Whitaker bill to invalidate teachers' certificates issued by the state institutions. The action was taken after several hours' debate, in which the representative from Hickory County was enabled to obtained favorable action on nearly all his school program.

If the bill is enacted into law, all teachers, before given certificates must pass an examination given by the state superintendent or county superintendents. The measure provides the examinations shall be of "the knowledge and fitness" of the teacher, and the time or place the applicant attends school shall not be considered. The certificates of person now teaching is not affected.

Injurious To Teachers College

The Whitaker bill, if enacted into law will give no advantages to the boy or girl who goes to the university or state teachers college to qualify for the teaching profession. Before permitted to teach, the college graduate must submit himself to an examination the same as an eighth grade or high school graduate. The measure is expected to be injurious, especially to the state teachers' colleges which now are maintained at the cost of several millions of dollars.

Whitaker A Dominant Force.

An interesting feature of today's school fight was that Representative Whitaker, Republican floor leader, coming from the smallest county in the state, showed himself to be the most dominant force in a Democratic legislature.

Two other Whitaker bills also were engrossed today. One of them requires applicants for teachers' certificates to be examined on the effects of tobacco. The other measure requires the state to pay high school tuition for students living in a districts having no high school.

The father of modern reform in India was Ram Moham Roy. His awakening, his outsanding work were dealt with as was the national social conference. Mr. G. K. Gokhald, India's foremost statesman, who organized the "Servants of India Society;" the response on the part of Indians to modern influence; India's great part in the World War, with these other helps show that India has awakened to a sense of her own need. We know a lot of wives in Maryville who are better men than their husbands.

What we need now is someone to start a movement for a proper observance of Easter which does not include the millners and dealers in wearing apparel.

Necessity is the mother of invention. One of our friends lost his radiator cover so he used one of the typewriter covers from one of the office machines and it worked O. K.

Uncle Abner says the average man keeps his faith in the human race as long as the profits are coming in satisfactorly.

We bet there is not a woman alive who would not give her eyes to be able to attend one of those services evangelists announce for "men only."

A bachelor remarked to us the other day that a soft answer will not turn away a man who is in love.

One of our boarding house friends tells us life and hash are about what you make them.

We can't say that nature always does the wise thing. For example why did she give a cat nine lives.

We can't understand the cynic. Just think there are about 120,000,000 people in this country and mighty few of them are not all O. K.

Vagrant Musings.

We bet a lot of men wish they had been born women when they witness day after day the foolish actions of their fellows.

We wonder if the man who wrote "Joy cometh in the morning," did not have a job which called him to work at 6 o'clock.

About the only meaning an holiday from the office for the average bungalow dweller has, is that he will have to do a lot of odd jobs his wife has been saving up for him.

Stories of Marvelous Catches Faded Into Insignificance Before Incident Related by Guest.

A rank outsider won the brown derby, the cut glass bathing suit and the solid goldfish, all at once, at the Anglers' club dinner the other night.

The fishermen came primed with their best stories. Frederick White, a veteran, told about the trout one of his friends had caught. It was so bashful that it kept hiding behind rocks and swinging its tail coyly as if to say, "I dowanna." Mr. White's friend finally cornered it and reproached it. Stung with remorse, the trout shed tears and begged for the bait, and the angler inserted a small bullfrog in its mouth, and it was caught.

More stories like that were told, until the purple embroidered motto, "Veritas," which decorated the mantel, turned blue.

Then Dr. S. G. Sinclair, a guest, rose. He said he wasn't a fisherman, but would like to tell the boys about the time he lived in Dawson City and they had a cold spell which stayed at 60 below zero for ten days.

"Why," he declared, "a fellow's house caught fire while he was taking a bath, and he found his escape cut off, and, would you believe it, it was so cold that he just emptied the tub out of the window and slid to safety down the icicles the water formed!"

The motto turned dead white and ripped automatically up the middle, as E. V. Connett III, the club president, conceded that Doctor Sinclair was the winner.—New York World.

CINDERELLA LEGEND IS OLD

Found Among Myths of Almost Every Country of Europe, With Different Interpretations.

The well-known fairy tale of Cinderella has been found among the myths of the Aryans, and from that it is known that it is the story of the Sun and the Dawn. To the Aryans the Sun was the Child of Night; the Dawn came before he was born, and died as he rose in the heavens.

Cinderella, gray and dark and dull, is all neglected when she is away from the Sun, obscured by the envious clouds, her sisters, and by her stepmother, the Night. So she is the Dawn, and the Fairy Prince is the Morning Sun, ever pursuing her to claim her for his bride.

This is the legend as it is found in ancient Hindoo books, and explains the source and meaning of this fairy tale, which is told in the language of every country in Europe. Likewise do all the versions of the stories of "Beauty and the Beast," "Jack the Giant-Killer," "Little Red Riding Hood" and a great number of other fairy stories, come from the same source, and yet with enough difference to show that none of them are copied from each other.

A Favorable Report on Bills by Senate

Anti-Speeding Bill and Anti-S. R. O. Theatre Measure Favorably Reported in Legislature

Jefferson City, Feb. 21—The criminal jurisprudence senate committee, of which Senator Whitecotton of Paris is chairman, today reported favorably on the Casey bill, authorizing all cities the power to provide penalties for fast and reckless driving. Under the proposed act, a city would have the power to fine the offender up to $500 and assess a jail sentence of one year, and suspend permission to drive a motor vehicle for six months.

The Pickett bill prohibiting the sale of theatre tickets after all seats were sold, was favorably reported. If passed this would eliminate the S. R. O. placard in all popular theaters.

Senator W. R. Painter's measure eliminating the duplication of printing documents and making such a criminal offense was favorably reported. It is claimed that this bill would save many thousands of dollars. Senators Brookshire and McMurray appeared before the committee and argued for their bills providing state censorship of moving pictures. They did not ask for a further hearing and appeared, according to the sentiment of some of the committee members, an unfavorable report would be given on the measure. McMurray said that he introduced the bill because many Sunday school associations, and similar organizations had sent him letters and telegrams urging favorable action.

What do you suppose would happen to some people if they would submit to some of the intelligence tests the magazines are talking about.

A PLEASANT PLACE FOR GENTLE FOLKS.

DODGE BROTHERS BUSINESS SEDAN

Dodge Brothers, with equal aptness, could have named it the Family Sedan.

In the first place, it is big and roomy—a five-passenger car that will really seat five adults in comfort. There is no space wasted on superfluous adornments. Every inch of body and chassis is put to actual use.

There are no delicate cloth furnishings to be soiled by the children. The seats are upholstered in durable and attractive blue Spanish leather.

There is no sensitive varnish to be easily scratched or finger-spotted. The body is steel-built—a new principle in Sedan design—making it possible to finish the exterior in Dodge Brothers oven-baked enamel, the most durable finish known.

The rear seat furnishings come out—instantly converting the rear section into a spacious carrying compartment—handy for carrying trunks, boxes and household luggage of all sorts.

Children can romp and play to their hearts' content in this car, and when cleaning time comes, you can turn the hose on it—inside and out.

You can be sure of this, nature has no substitute for red-blood-cells. Pimple-poison can't live in the red rivers of your blood as long as there are enough rich red-blood-cells in it. More red-blood-cells!

THE TUTANKHAMEN EXPOSITION

Probably the Egyptians, when one of their Pharaohs died, did not hold a world's fair in his memory and place in his tomb all the exhibits gathered for the big show. What they will do however, amounted to much the same thing so far as benefits to posterity are concerned. Funeral customs which undoubtedly have their origin partly in religious sentiment and partly in the desire of the individual to be remembered caused them to place in the burial places of their rulers exhibits in a great number of the industries of the time, the varied tools with which their handwork was wrought, the best specimens of their art crafts, the writings of their literary men, including, of course, specially prepared articles glorifying the deceased.

It is these funeral customs that render the tomb of Tutankhamen in the Valley of the Kings so noteworthy. Archeology has some brilliant achievements in its record, especially during the last half century but in the discovery of this tomb it has scored one of its remarkable triumphs. It must be remembered that this Egyptian gentleman was a comparatively modern figure in the history of his country. From the top of the Great Pyramid, the oldest of the seven wonders of the world and the only one that now survives, something like twenty-seven centuries were looking down on the day Tutankhamen was born. He lived about 1300 before Christ and the pyramid is supposed to have been built at least 4000 B. C. The use of iron, which became known to other peoples at a much later period, had been familiar to the Egyptians since about the date assigned to the pyramid's construction, but curiously it was regarded as an impure metal on which religion frowned and whose discovery was attributed to an evil spirit.

There are other Pharaohs whose tombs would have much greater significance to those of this time, assuming that they had remained in the same condition as when the royal remains were first deposited. But unfortunately, successive invading armies and successive raids by individuals robbers and bandit hands have despoiled them. Many interesting things which robbers overlooked or did not regard as worth taking away have been recovered from such tombs, but from none has a complete exhibit of civilization of its time been previously recovered.

Tutankhamen was neither a very ancient Pharaoh in the Egyptologist's view nor a very modern one. He lived in an intermediary period during which few things of importance later had their beginning. But it happens that his is the only tomb so far opened which was found in what appears to be the exact state in which it was sealed up on the imperial slumber. And if there is a wish that the resting place of some ruler of much greater antiquity might be found unmolested, we may remember that the 3300 years since Tutankhamen's time is a tolerable long cycle in the world's annals. What we call civilization is supposed to have made its appearance about 6000 or 7000 years ago. This man accordingly came upon the scene at about civilization's noon hour He was the heir of about as many generations of civilized mankind previous to his life as we are of generations since he died. He had the benefit of all those ephochal discoverics that have raised mankind from savagery—the bow and arrows, pottery-making, domestication of animals, navigation of the salt seas, the smelting of iron, master craft among all crafts; of a remarkable progress in art; of written language, invention that unchained minds.

Systematically arranged for inspection, the heaped up articles found in boxes and bales in this tomb might fill an exposition building of moderate size. An inventory of every single article discovered would make a rather bulky catalogue. And will not this world exposition of the tomb have illuminating instruction for the people of the present and is not the interest now aroused in all countries a worthy interest? If the unearthing of long period fossils fascinates the scientific mind because of the light they throw on the evolution of animal structures, should not these products of ingenious hands long dead have a mighty appeal as showing the evolution through which intellect slowly unfolded and brought kinship with the gods?

The multifarious contest of this tomb may furnish forth a half-way house in the long flight of civilized centuries. The Egyptains then lead the world. Exhibits of their capacities in hand and brain are exhibits on the maximum possibilities of all other people of the time. From them many things that went before may be studied and comparison made with things that came afterward. It is to be deemed a desecration if very many men and women of the present and of long future years feel a very great desire to rest for a while in this half-way house, to observe narrowly and after observing to reflect deeply?—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

E. F. CALDWELL REPORTS LOSS OF BLACK SADDLE MARE

Edwin F. Caldwell of near Burlington Junction reported to Sheriff Steve Roach this morning that a black saddlle pacing mare had been taken at Burlington Junction Monday night an das yet no trace has been found of it. This mare was driven to Burlington Junction by a young boy who works on the Caldwell farm and when returned for the mare, no trace could be found of it. The boy said he tied the mare good and tight to a telephone pole.

YOUNG ELMO COUPLE WAS REFUSED A MARRIAGE LICENSE.

Virgil Kinman and Gledys Peery of Elmo came to Maryville this afternoon after a marriage license but on account of the fact that Miss Peery was only 19 years old and did not have the consent of her parents, the license was refused. The young couple were accompanied here by Miss Peery's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Peery. The young couple said they would try and get the license at Clarinda.

Disappointment Was Mutual.

Mason, who played the flute in the orchestra at the local theater, was taken ill half an hour before the performance was due to begin.

After much persuasion, he prevailed upon his friend Brown (an amateur flute player) to take his place.

Brown duly reported himself to the conductor, intimating that he had had considerable musical experience. At the end of the overture, however, he continued to play his flute for several minutes after the others had finished. He then calmly packed up his instrument, and was walking toward the exit, when the conductor stopped him.

"I thought you could play the flute?" he said.

"Yes, and so did I; so we've both been deceived!" was the mournful reply.

It Happened in Boston.

A woman alighted from her limousine and tripped daintily into a Washington street shoe store.

She looked. She looked at just about every class and kind and cut of boudoir slippers in the place. The matters of last and size and style were settled. But she hesitated over the matter of color. She hesitated and pursed her lips and tapped the floor with the toe of one well-shod foot and looked thoughtful. Then an idea dawned.

"Tell you what I'll do," she told the salesman, "I'll send my kimono down with my chauffeur and have you match the shade."

"Er—yes'm," said the salesman.—Business.

Winter Tennis Uniform.

Tennis is popularly supposed to be a sport for spring and summer, but in some sections it is made a winter sport. Tennis players wear woolen gloves on cold days. Although the gloves make it impossible to get the best grip on the racket, the games are rather speedy. Heavy sweaters complete the costume. One of the players joshed recently by the impromptu gallery called back that he intended to play until "the snow gets too deep." "The only thing I didn't like about tennis was that it made me too hot," he explained. "That fault is removed by playing in freezing weather."

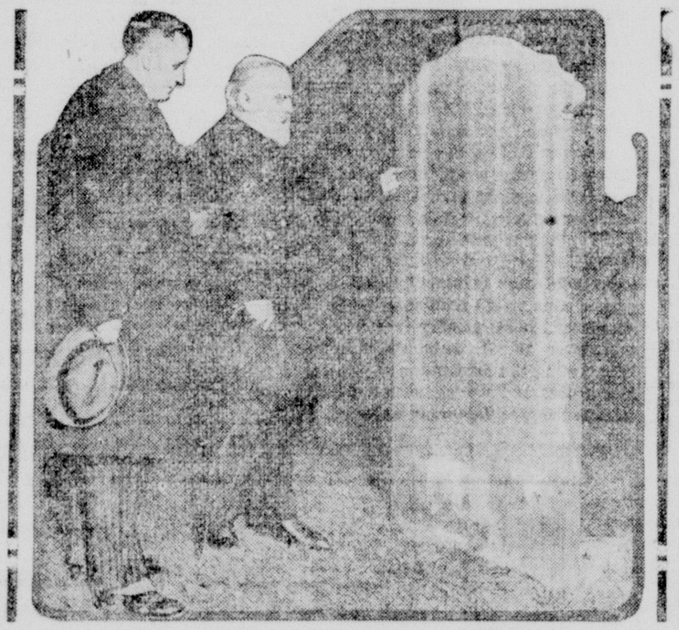
How Canada Fights Grasshoppers.

It is estimated that 1,096,000 acres of grain in the province of Sasaatoon, Sask., were saved by the grasshopper campaign, according to the tenth annual report of the field crops branch of the department of agriculture. The cost of the ingredients used was less than that in previous years, a considerable saving having been effected by modifications made in the poison bait recipes.

How Iowans Treat Hen Thieves

These three men were seized by a committee of vigilantes and treated to coats of tar and feathers. The flashlight photograph was secured by City Marshall John L. Spurr, who arrived on the scene too late to save the three men whom the vigilantes had charged with chicken stealing. The incident occurred at Sanborn, Iowa. Buckets in which the tar had been prepared were used to hide the faces of two of the victims. The third didn't need any covering other than the tar and feathers.

Searching for Pocohontas' Grave



Canon Gedge, the rector of Gravesend, England (right), is shown here with Edward Page Gaston of the museum galleries at one of the old tombs in Gravesend wherein, it is believed, the re-interred remains of the Indian Princess Pocohontas are buried. Several of the tombs were opened to locate the remains.

Endangers Fur Animals.

According to Dr. William T. Hornaday it takes 80 skins to make the average mink wrap, 200 for a squirrel coat, and 280 for a black mole coat, 90 skins may go to the making of a striped skunk jacket, and 300 to a Siberian ermine wrap. Before many years, if the present rate of slaughter continues, many of our most interesting animals will be practically extinct; even now the trapper is forced farther afield, and skins once unmarketable are being used to supply the deficiency.—Scientific American.

Undertaker Gets His First.

Under Kansas law, in the final settlement of a case in probate court, if there is not enough money to go 'round the undertaker is the only one who is paid in full. The doctor, the printer and even the judge himself, must probate the remainder. Everybody except the undertaker must lose some or all of his bill. The dead must be buried.—Collier's Weekly.

BOSTON DOPE VICTIM

Evelyn Stanfield, known in the radical art colony in Boston as "Tarzan," was locked in a room and drugs were denied her. She went through all the horrible stages of the so-called "withdrawal symptoms." She was as truly a mad woman as any maniac who is strait-jacketed in an asylum, when, finally, she splintered the door with a chair and rushed past the guard into the street. She eluded the surprised detectives with maniac cunning and disappeared.

QUESTIONNAIRE FOR PARENTS

By Mrs. Z. C. Thornburg.

Here are some thoughts given in a recent parent-council meeting in Des Moines. These might come under the head of food for thought for parents:

Am I too busy to knit the hearts of my children te me?

Would my child choose the kind of mother I am?

Am I polite to my husband and children as I am to my neighbor's husband and children?

Am I requiring of my children gentle speech and courteous conduct toward everyone?

Do I impel rather than compel obedience?

Does my child's dress express the kind of mother I am?

Am I too self sacrificing mother, thereby causing selfish thoughtless children, (the speaker suggested that the mother who wears darned cotton stocking while her daughter wears silk to school is of this type.)

Do I give my children the things they cry for?

Am I teaching that one with God is a majority?

DEMOCRATS SLOW ABOUT LEGISLATION

NONE OF IMPORTANT CAUCUS MEASURES FAR ADVANCED

APPROPRIATION BILLS

Not Yet Introduced—Certain Measures to Governor in Time to Pass Them Over His Veto

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 21.— Legislative procrastination has made certain that the Democratic preligislative program to embarrass Gov. Hyde will not be accomplished. Due to failure to get the appropriation bills along the way to passage, there is now virtually no possibility that the Democratic Senators can get the Governor into the hole which they planned at their St. Louis conference in December to dig for him.

The scheme worked out was to have the appropriation bills passed before March 1 and to have ready for passage the various bills abolishing the offices of a number of the Governor's appointees. The scheme was to get these measures to the Governor more than 10 days prior to the adjournment of the Legislature, and if he vetoed any of their favorite bills or any of the items in the appropriation bills in which there was party interest, to attempt to pass them over the veto.

Status of the Program.

As is is, none of the important caucus measures are far advanced on the calender of either house, and the main appropriation bills have not even been introduced. It is doubtful if they get in before the end of this week, or early next week which will mean that there is little probability that they will be passed much before the final adjournment.

The effect of this is to leave all important legislation at the will of the Governor. A bill which reaches him within the last 10 days of the session does not go back to the Legislature. If the Governor vetoes it it is dead. A bill reaching him more than 10 days prior to adjournment must be acted upon by him within 10 days. If vetoed it is returned to the Legislature, which decides whether the Governor's veto shall be sustained.

It is probable the Legislature will adjourn Saturday night, March 17. The 70-day period during which the legislators are paid $5 a day will end March 14 and after that time they will receive only $1 a day. When the $1 days begin the members begin packing up and usually close the session the following Saturday night.

May Speed Up Appropriations.

If the main appropriation bills are introduced by next Saturday, which will be Feb. 24, there will remain only ten working days until the beginning of the last ten days of the session, and it is almost impossible to get through bills of their magnitude and importance in ten days.

It is impossible to pass any bill even one which calls for no debate in less than five days, and on appropriation bills, which are long and which are considered section by section two weeks is a short time. If introduced on Saturday, they could be read a second time on Monday and the House then could begin considering them in the committee of the whole the same day. Three days would be a short time for this stage of the proceedings and their engrossment could hardly be expected before Wednesday. The final vote in the House could then come on Thursday. They could be read the first time in the Senate that day and Friday could be taken up in committee of the whole. The Senate probably will not take as much time in considering them and they probably would be engrossed by Friday night, and passed Saturday.

It probably never has occurred that the Senate has passed appropriations bills in the form sent over by the House, which means that on Monday the House would consider the Senate amendments. Failure of the House to agree to these amendments would require a report of the disagreement to the Senate, which probably would be done on Tuesday, when the Senate would decide whether to recede or to insist upon its amendments.

Insistence would require the appointment of a conference committee which would take a day or two, meaning that the report of the conference committee would get back to the Senate and House Wednesday or Thursday, when final action would be taken on the measures. Thus the greater part of two weeks would be taken up, and this is allowing no time for unexpected delays or filibustering by Republicans. Even this rush would not pas the bills until March 8, nine days before the date of the probable adjournment.

Nearly all the bills affecting the Public Service Commission, the Tax Commission, the Food and Drug Department and other departments presided over by the appointees of the Governor have been introduced, though few of them have been reported from committees. They could be rushed through in time to compel action by the Governor before adjournment, but no steps have been taken to hurry them and it is doubtful if any of the important measures will be passed before the last few days of the session.

So far as is indicated by the present situation the Governor can use his veto power at will without danger of interference from the Legislature, which will have adjourned before he is required to act.

Coroner Benham Says Sheriff Overheard Conversations in Jail Cells.

Rock Port, Mo., Feb. 21—Mrs. Grace Cooper and George Fashler, held on charges of first degree murder have confessed that the infant, whose body was dug up on the Cooper farm, belonged to them, according to county authorities.

Sheriff L. L. Chastain overheard two conversations yesterday between Mrs. Cooper and a friend and Fashler and the same visitor in which it was admitted that the child was theirs, Dr. Charles E. Benham, coroner, said tonight.

The murder case probably will come up the first Monday in March, Prosecuting Attorney J. F. Gore is now trying cases in Savannah on a change of venue, but probably will return early in March.

Atchison county folk recalled today that it was only last June that another tragedy occurred on the Cooper farm ,three miles south of Rock Port. Lee Bresler, son-in-law of Mrs. Cooper, is now out on bond, charged with the murder of Jim Jennings. Jennings after being shot, was taken to a hospital in St. Joseph where he died several days later.

Colonial Characters Feature S. T. C. Chapel

Washington Birthday Program a Pleasing Affair—Foster Urged More Patriotism

The patriotic program which was given at the State Teachers College this morning was one of the most pleasing ever given at that institution. It was a Washington's birthday program and the spirit of the occasion was carried out in every way.

The feature of the program came at the last when some twenty college students, dressed in colonial costumes, appeared in a scene depicting the making of the first American flag. The costumes for this scene were imported from Kansas City and the different characters were good portrayals of the famous men and women of the time.

Sixteen members of the department of physical education for girls danced the minuet in colonial costumes. John Allan DeMott, dressed as a negro fiddler, was the accompanist.

The address on "Present Day Patriotism," given by H. A. Foster, was good. Mr. Foster talked of the patriotism of the present day and made a plea for more love of country.

Misses Ruth Miller and Marie Cloud in an interpretative dance and song were also good. The college orchestra played and community singing was led by Charles R. Gardner.

An Open Forum on The Ruhr Invasion

An open forum discussion on the French invasion of the Ruhr, will be the feature of the mid-week services of the First Methodist Church tonight. The discussion will be led by C. C. Leeson, and different phases and angles of the present military situation will be taken up. After the open forum the regular devotional services will be held.
